Instructions: Fill out this form every day you are at your internship site. When your internship is finished, have your internship mentor sign the log at the bottom. Your clinical hours can now be entered into your SLHS Program Clock Hours Tracking Spreadsheet, along with your other clinical training experiences.

Definition of Clock Hours: Clock Hours refers to direct contact with the client or the client family in assessment, management, and/or counseling.

Definition of Residency: The time you spend on site outside of direct clinical contact. These may include observations, lunch, recess, informal meetings among colleagues, mentorship meetings, among others. The SFSU SLHS Program requires interns to spend a minimum of 75 residency hours at their internship site. Residency time contributes significantly to an intern's integration into a internship site's culture and community. Over the semester, it is expected the weekly time spent in residency will decrease as the time spent in providing direct clinical services increase.
